CHURCHILL JARS LONDONERS

An announcement Surprise

Most Observers Believe Warning Is Move To Keep Army, Civilians On Alert

By WILLIAM H. STONEMAN

LONDON, Aug. 1.—(CDN)—Prime Minister Winston Churchill's announcement that the invasion season is at hand and that the British forces have been warned to be prepared for action September 1 has caused considerable surprise in London.

The general impression is that a German invasion of Britain this year "has been an impossibility." At the beginning of the campaign it was believed that with all the luck in the world Germany might push off the Red army and air force within six weeks and be prepared to meet an invasion of the British Isles on or about September 15.

For the last two weeks, however, it has been evident that the Russian campaign will not be concluded either in six weeks or two months and persistent reports say that the Germans have extended their timetable by three or four months.

BEAD WEATHER OCTOBER 1
It has been assumed by most members of the cabinet and most military leaders, though apparently not by Churchill, that it will be physically impossible for Germany to regroup its forces and amass sufficient equipment in the west until after bad weather makes the channel virtually impassable. Under normal conditions bad weather here is to be chronic about Oct. 1.

Most observers prefer to put Churchill's warning down as a move to keep the troops and the armed forces on their toes. The inability of Britain and its Allies to launch a first-class attack on Germany either in the west or in the middle east has not been a discouraging effect on the troops and something definite will have to be done to keep them interested.

The Allies in date have been unable to do anything of sufficient dimensions to distract the attention of the Reichswehr command from the eastern front or to draw off any divisions. Whether or not such action is being planned or will be undertaken, naturally remains a complete mystery.

Nazis Claiming Steady Progress
BERLIN, Aug. 1.—(AP)—A high command communique of extraordinary brevity reported steady progress on the eastern front toward Germany, stirred by other war news, waited for the German army might soon be hammering at the very gates of Leningrad.

Reverting again to a broad picture, barren of any detail, the bulletin from Hitler's headquarters devoted only two sentences to the whole war with Soviet Russia, it said:

"Battles on the east front continue to develop in our favor."

"Warplanes last night bombarded military objectives in Moscow." The impression that things are moving to suit the German high command in the last few days was fostered by an announcement by D.N.B. German news and propaganda agency, that a Russian regiment had been wiped out on the narrow strip of the front near Pskov and the Baltic while guarding that approach to the city.

Polio In N.B.
FREDERICTON, Aug. 1.—(CP)—Three new cases of infantile paralysis were reported in New Brunswick Thursday, raising the total to 39 since the first outbreak this month. Three deaths have occurred.

Interpreting War News
Associated Press Staff Writer
BERLIN'S insistence that the German offensive against Leningrad, former czarist capital of Russia, is impending, is subject to the question, perhaps, of whether the German propaganda is warranted the Moscow report of "Nazi propaganda."

If the city is actually closely besieged, as the German officials claim, there has been no previous indication of it from any quarter. Nor can it be overlooked that the Berlin claim was made at a time when the German high command was launching an attack on German-held or German-occupied bases on the Arctic ocean. About the same time, moreover, Harry Hopkins, the American director of aid to the Axis, was in Moscow extending assurances of help to Russia.

OFF-SET ENCOURAGEMENT
It seems possible that Berlin felt the need of offsetting this encouragement to Russian defenders in Leningrad. At any rate, it is obvious that the front line in Leningrad from the west, the narrow 40-mile strip between Lake Pskov and the Gulf of Finland, is still held by the Russians. That is, it is still held by the Russian. That is, it is still held by the Russian.

That means the main fighting on the extreme flank is still in Estonia, west of Lake Peipus. That long water barrier guards the approach to Leningrad from the west for a distance of nearly 100 miles.

The most dangerous Nazi thrust at Leningrad up to now has been via Pskov and Porkhov, just off the lake system. For the Moscow war bulletins have reiterated reports of violent battles in the Porkhov region, indicating that the Nazi attack has been held up, just 100 miles, and more, air line, from Leningrad.

There were Berlin announcements two weeks or more ago.

Today's War Moves
The will to resistance in the occupied countries and to keep the spirit of the people from being crushed, so that when the time comes they will be ready for open revolt.

The other aim is to discourage the German people and to make the kind of infernal conflict that came with the military reverses in 1918. While the British are not counting on a German defeat in Russia, they believe that if unexpectedly heavy, the German structure will collapse and the end of the whole war will be in sight.

France in Germany has definitely proved itself to be good. German morale so far in this war has been at a great level. Berlin and other German cities have not been bombed so terribly as English cities of popular. The German people have been buoyed up by victory after victory. The army found it comparatively easy going until it came up against the Russians who to the chagrin and annoyance of the German, refused to throw up their hands and quit.

FED WITH PROMISES
The German people since 1914 have suffered more from a quarter-century of war and privation. Since 1918 they have been promised to build up a great military machine and war industry to acquire what they had lost and again be happy and prosperous.

In doing so they were fed with the promise of victory. The let down if victory does not come, or is postponed agonizingly in the face of reverses, will be tremendous.

All this is taken into account by the British in the war of nerves. It is why they have invented the "V" campaign and have managed to keep it rolling.

Thailand Next?

Favorite subject of travelogues, the little kingdom of Thailand seems about to go on the Axis chopping block as the Japanese manoeuvre for a possible land attack on Singapore, Britain's Far East Gibraltar.

Prospects of settlement of Canada's labor difficulties seem somewhat brighter although six strikes were still in progress.

In Hamilton, Ont., National Steel Corp. Corporation started today to resume work at seven o'clock Saturday morning. They were acting upon advice of their union representatives who had conferred in Ottawa yesterday with federal labor officials. The strike started last Monday.

A second strike in Hamilton started yesterday when 300 employees of the Canadian Cable Company walked out reportedly because they misunderstood an agreement signed by their company and their union representatives last Sunday.

At Kitchener, Ont., the strike at Dunsmuir's Limited, a packing plant, went into its third day today. Three hundred employees are involved in the strike, second at the plant within three months.

The Canadian Car and Foundry Company's plant at Brantford, Ont., engaged in war industries, was idle today, with a wage issue between employees and management still unsettled. The dispute arose when employers agreed to give a 44-cent an hour wage. Two hundred and seventy-two other employees struck Monday in sympathy with the grinders.

However the men voted last night to return to work Tuesday. They said the situation had been reached in order not to embarrass the department of labor more than necessary. They had walked out last Friday.

Although most Canadian strikes centered in Ontario, the far west and the Maritimes have not been idle. At Dawson, Yukon territory, 700 pulp millers employed by the Yukon Consolidated Gold Corporation walked out Monday when the firm refused to grant a 10-cent a day wage increase.

Today in the third day of the strike at the Prince's Collery of the Nova Scotia Steel and Coal Company, company officials have refused to meet labor officials until the 1,200 striking miners return to their jobs.

Conferences that might lead to establishment of a basis of negotiation in the dispute between the Aluminum Company of Canada and its employees were expected to be resumed at Arvida, Que., today between company officials and representatives of the National Catholic Syndicate of aluminum workers.

ARVIDA HUMS AGAIN
Meanwhile, the big Arvida plant hummed with activity as work went forward looking for a resumption of full production in the steel mill. The plant, which is often regarded as Canada's most advanced production plant, was under a production order because of the necessity of "chipping" solidified aluminum out of the pots in the potroom. The metal solidified when it grew cool after the strike started last week.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—(AP)—Sumner Welles, acting secretary of state, announced Thursday night that the United States had accepted official apologies of the Japanese government on the bombing of the USS Tensho at Chungking, China, and that the incident was regarded as purely accidental.

Welles made the announcement after consultation with President Roosevelt.

The official apologies of the Japanese government, together with an offer to pay indemnities for the bombing of the submarine and to take measures to prevent such incidents in the future, were made last night by Admiral Kichiharu Nomura, Japanese ambassador here.

In answer to queries concerning the ambassador's visit, Welles said the envoy had called on official instructions and had expressed the regret of the Japanese government. He added that the Japanese government viewed the incident as entirely accidental.

Tobruk

The Australian forces have won laurels wherever they have been in action. Nowhere have they acquitted themselves better than in holding Tobruk. That Libyan port is not a natural stronghold. The Italian could not hang on there though they outnumbered Wavell's forces ten to one, had unlimited supplies, and had spent months of preparation. The "Auslese" took it from them last winter, have held it ever since, and say they can go on holding it as long as required.

For nearly four months Tobruk has been under continuous siege. It has been bombed times without number, attacked by tanks, by infantry, shelled daily, assaulted by surprise raids. One officer who has been under the siege says casually that Axis planes come over "about every two hours."

But, backed and supplied by warships of the Mediterranean squadron and by R.A.F. planes, the garrison is not only held on, but has waged an active and damaging offensive against the flank of the Axis column strung out along the coast highway. Rommel could not retake what Gazian looked like.

Tobruk will go down in history as a desert outpost where valor kept the flag flying through long months of investment by enemy forces incomparably greater in numbers and armed with all the implements of attack.

This Isn't Peace-Time

It took the affair at Arvida to bring to attention one peace-time restriction of authority which was not subject to suspend when war came. When the strikers seized the works it was found the Minister of defence had no power to send troops to take the works over, preserve order without first obtaining the consent of municipal and provincial authorities. As the town is a company town there is no municipal authority to consult, and the provincial Government had to be asked about it.

Fortunately the strikers did not resort to sabotage at Arvida nor seemingly did break down out. But had they been of different temperament had four days of looting in which they could have wrecked the establishment, and put an important source of warplane material out of business for many months.

That oversight has of course been corrected. An order-in-council hastily passed at Ottawa gives the Minister power to send troops where they are needed to prevent interference with war production, without waiting for request or consent from municipal or provincial authorities. The Arvida situation will not therefore arise elsewhere.

There are reasons why local and provincial officials should be consulted in peace-time before the military is employed to interfere in a strike area. But those considerations, like a good many others, have to be regarded as peace-time. Industries vital to the security of the country must be protected, regardless of peace-time ceremonial procedure.

The Question Of Safety

The National Safety Council reports that during the first half of this year 16,810 persons were killed on streets and highways in the United States. The figure is 17 per cent higher than for the first half of 1940. In numbers the increase in deaths was 2,390. If the casualty rate continues to grow as rapidly as it is now, growing the rate for the year will be beyond the 40,000 mark.

During the first Great War, 50,150 United States soldiers were killed in battle. As forces for the first time were engaged for more than a half-year, the highway fatalities are approximately as numerous as were deaths in the trenches.

In the eighteen months from the beginning of 1940 to the end of last June, 41,910 civilians were killed in Great Britain by enemy aircraft. In the United States may kill as many in the current twelve months, with in fact do so if they keep up the record of highway deaths during the first half of the year.

Population and other conditions taken into account, Canadians have not been killed by enemy aircraft as many as these figures. We are doing a lot of highway killing ourselves.

Last year people met death on Canadian streets and highways at the average rate of 146 per month, and the rate was going up a 7 per cent grade. Unless the climb slackened it is probable 1,960 were killed during the first six months of this year. As the population of the United States is 12 times as large, our relative rate of highway deaths works out at about 15,000 per six months.

against 16,810 in the more congested conditions in the United States. Judged by the numbers, Canadian casualties in Britain have been safer than civilians on the streets and highways in Canada.

The Sixth Week

On Sunday it will be six weeks since Herr Hitler announced with a rhetorical flourish that he had placed "the safety of the Reich" in the hands of the army, and sent his mechanized forces to spread death and destruction through the territory of his economic ally, to whom his spokesman at Moscow had the evening before pledged the eternal fidelity of the Fuehrer.

So far as can be gathered from the conflicting despatches, the end of the sixth week promises to leave matters about as they stood at the end of the fifth—and the fourth, and the third. Certainly the Nazi headquarters has not yet sent out the reports of the German soldiers in the field. It has been promising for a fortnight.

Instead, it is admitted at Berlin that the "fanatical" Russians are attacking fiercely at the base of the German spearhead, beyond Smolensk, and Moscow openly declares the attempted blitzkrieg has been stalled along the 1800 mile line. Both sides say the fighting has been continuous and furious, in itself an admission from the attackers that they are not making rapid headway, if any.

Meanwhile the Ukrainian wheat crop is being harvested and carted away into the interior. If the grain is ripe enough to cut it will soon be ripe enough to burn, if part of the crop is to be destroyed to keep it from falling into the Nazi hands. And repeated and undenied reports say the "Forest of Death" has been burned into a temporary unproductiveness.

The Ukraine wheat was one immediate objective of the Nazi invasion; while it was ripe, it appeared to Berlin's plans that the Rumanian oil supply should be cut down. In those two items of material supplies Germany at some point if it did not turn against the economic partner.

As for the major objective, that of smashing the Red army and forcing Russia to sue for peace, it has been no nearer attainment than it was four weeks ago.

Senator Worth Clark (no, Champ is dead) suggests that the United States "take over control" of Canada and the Latin American states, as "puppet governments" like those in Europe and China. Overlooking a few other points, it would probably surprise the Idaho Senator if some one told him he is preaching Nazi doctrine.

Canada's wheat carryover at the end of the marketing year is placed at slightly more than 496,000 bushels, a record surplus. The bright spot in the picture is that exports have been heavier than surplus, and the carryover is heavier in recent months—amounting to 171,000 bushels. It is not impossible that the surplus will be reduced to 171,000 bushels, if the new crop may all be sold, and the carryover a year from now be no larger than it is at present.

Fallacy Of Race Superiority

"Pure-blooded Germans" Routed By "Mongrel" Troops Fighting For Russia

By HAROLD L. WEIR

There was one stand-up and knock-down fight in Russia the other day. Made desperate by continued German reverses, Adolf Hitler resolved to inflict at least one crushing defeat on the Russians.

So into the central front of the Smolensk sector he threw his very finest "regiment." This was the "German" or "Mongrel" troops, chosen after rigid inspection for their fierce devotion to the Nazi cause, and more important, for their purity of their Nordic blood.

These men, Hitler said, were invincible. They were banded together with the single purpose of demonstrating the martial superiority of the Nordic race. Well, these Nordic supermen met an equal number of Russians in a pitched battle, and the Russians beat the super-men to the hilt.

A communique from Moscow announced with justifiable pride that the regiment which trounced the picked body of Nazis was composed of 50 different nationalities and all possible biological permutations and combinations thereof.

This trumped up theory of the Nazis that they are of peculiarly pure blood and superior for that reason is a stupid myth and quite untrue in two definite particulars.

In the first place, neither the Germans nor any other extant race is of anything remotely resembling a pure blood. In the second place, there is absolutely no proof, indeed, the evidence is all to the contrary—that purity of blood is an asset for purposes of intelligent and spiritual life.

The spurious ethnologists of Germany attempt to justify their claim that pure blood is of some mysterious virtue by dubious botanical and barnyard references. Nature's life are only of two different kinds, like only mules with like. This, they declare, is nature's evidence that the higher forms of life are only of two different kinds, like only mules with like. This, they declare, is nature's evidence that the higher forms of life are only of two different kinds, like only mules with like.

Their argument is a pure blood. That of course is perfectly true. The "Human Purpose" Livestock eugenists know that they secure better results by keeping their herds and their pens pure because by so doing they are able to intensify the characteristics peculiar to those strains.

The kind of cattle is renowned for the production of milk and another kind of cattle is renowned for the production of beef. It is a mistake to cross-breed these two. A mistake will be neither good milk cattle nor good beef cattle.

But it is beginning to be believed, now, that the purpose of human beings on the earth is to produce higher forms of life. The purpose of larger eggs, as in hens, fatter flesh, or in the case of cattle, of superior milk, is to produce higher forms of life.

Of course, it is natural for the Nazis to think in terms of barnyard biology; but their pagan outlook causes them to regard the products of any Nazi race as the cardinal virtues of the world.

It is true that the Nazis are surpassed in fertility by the jackrabbits, in bravery by the gerbils, in obedience by the dog. But they hope, by careful selection of their stock, to find a superior Nazi population to the biological status of these likeable and useful animals.

These pseudo-scientists in Hitler's pay appear to overlook the fact that the business of living is slightly different from the business of giving milk or laying eggs. They appear to forget that the biological requirements for a full and useful human life are definitely not the same as the requirements for a full and useful animal or fowl life.

Therefore, they do not understand that the qualities that fit a man for a spiritual life must be drawn from the heat lightning, not of a single race, but of all races and of all kinds and conditions of men.

The Nazis do not understand these things because they do not recognize the spiritual life. Indeed, they make war on the spiritual life. Spirituality is anti-Nazi. They are not able to find a spiritual life, and hence their absorption in barnyard eugenics. Hence their hysterical emphasis on the racial purity of their blood, and their fixation of unimpaired blood.

Therefore, they do not understand that the qualities that fit a man for a spiritual life must be drawn from the heat lightning, not of a single race, but of all races and of all kinds and conditions of men.

It would be a mistake, of course, to saddle the poor ally Nazis with all the blame for this delusion of superior blood. We did it, and, in some cases, still do it.

About the turn of the century when our economic principles were accorded the revelation that the British Empire had a messianic mission to remake the world, we were the strongest force for the consciousness of some mad philologist in the name of "Aryan blood."

It was the spirit of the age that our forebears comprised many more Celts than Angles and more Gauls than Saxons. The British Empire was a composite of many races, and it was this composite that made it so strong.

was specifically and exclusively on our part. In brief, we committed the dreadful and typically Nazi blasphemy of reducing Jehovah to the stature of a mean, cringing and selfish little tribal god. I think we are over that now.

No Pure Races

There are no pure races. Even the ancient Greeks and Romans were dubious mixtures of many racial groups. The countries of Europe have been invaded so often and so violently that such a thing as pure blood is a biological fantasy.

If Geoffrey of Monmouth is right, the foundations of Britain were laid by survivors from the siege of Troy who founded Rome. In that case we are probably closer to the most ancient Italians in origin than to anyone else.

This obsession about pure blood is of comparatively recent birth. There is no record of medieval nations bothering about it, although they were much nearer to the truth than we are.

Indeed, the medievalists were quite liberal in such matters. Thus, the dalliance of Count William's father on a lower bank did not prejudice his successors. And even the possession of a variegated pig was regarded as lending robustness and vigour to a lot of arms.

It developed when we failed to distinguish between the constituents of an immortal soul and the constituents of a good right arm.

Even among the Nazis because, characteristically, they have become confused in their understanding of what makes a man and what makes a jack-rabbit, a gorilla or a dog.

Arrows Beat Dodgers 5-3 to Cinch Playoff Berth

Errors Cost Morgan Squad Two Runs in Second Frame

MAKING the most of two costly Dodger errors and the four hits they were able to get off Ralph Morgan, Edmonton Arrows clinched a place in the Central Alberta Baseball League playoffs last night with a 5-3 win over their intra-city rivals, the Dodgers.

Two costly errors in the second innings, one by Brockie in center field and a two-base error by Williams at second, gave the Arrows the two-run margin by which they won the game.

Dodgers collected seven hits in all off the pitching of Fred Luter but the Morgan men were not hitting according to their position in the batting order and were unable to get full value in runs for their hits.

End of the seventh brought a score against Fred Luter, who after Base Umpire Bob Coxford called Stewart safe at first on a throw from center field that caught the Dodger headed for second and forced him to dislodge the bag. Fred Luter of the Arrows was particularly hot about the decision and came up to bat at the start of the eighth with a crack to apoplexy about the honesty of umpires.

CATCHER CHASED on Fred Luter. Ducey landed on Fred Luter a lot of bricks and ordered him to get the game. Arrows catcher Brockie chased Luter into the outfield and caught him with a throw from the Arrows dugout and a single to right field by Fred Luter.

It was Fred Luter who started the scoring for the Arrows in the first inning with a single to right field and a single to left field by Brockie. Morgan's pitcher, Steve O'Neill, was hit by a single and then Shampier came with a sacrifice to put Luter on base.

One of the clubs' current losing streak has grown rumors of the year-old club, who somehow got his team last year into the world series, would be replaced, possibly by Steve O'Neill, one of Baker's lieutenants. Steve O'Neill was prominently mentioned as his successor.

The Detroit front office, however, still has profound respect for Baker's reputation as a second baseman. That's why almost three years ago they turned to the relatively unknown third base coach at Chicago, White Sox, and Steve O'Neill, one of Baker's lieutenants, was prominently mentioned as his successor.

Arrows Beat Dodgers 5-3 to Cinch Playoff Berth

Errors Cost Morgan Squad Two Runs in Second Frame

MAKING the most of two costly Dodger errors and the four hits they were able to get off Ralph Morgan, Edmonton Arrows clinched a place in the Central Alberta Baseball League playoffs last night with a 5-3 win over their intra-city rivals, the Dodgers.

Two costly errors in the second innings, one by Brockie in center field and a two-base error by Williams at second, gave the Arrows the two-run margin by which they won the game.

Dodgers collected seven hits in all off the pitching of Fred Luter but the Morgan men were not hitting according to their position in the batting order and were unable to get full value in runs for their hits.

End of the seventh brought a score against Fred Luter, who after Base Umpire Bob Coxford called Stewart safe at first on a throw from center field that caught the Dodger headed for second and forced him to dislodge the bag. Fred Luter of the Arrows was particularly hot about the decision and came up to bat at the start of the eighth with a crack to apoplexy about the honesty of umpires.

CATCHER CHASED on Fred Luter. Ducey landed on Fred Luter a lot of bricks and ordered him to get the game. Arrows catcher Brockie chased Luter into the outfield and caught him with a throw from the Arrows dugout and a single to right field by Fred Luter.

It was Fred Luter who started the scoring for the Arrows in the first inning with a single to right field and a single to left field by Brockie. Morgan's pitcher, Steve O'Neill, was hit by a single and then Shampier came with a sacrifice to put Luter on base.

One of the clubs' current losing streak has grown rumors of the year-old club, who somehow got his team last year into the world series, would be replaced, possibly by Steve O'Neill, one of Baker's lieutenants. Steve O'Neill was prominently mentioned as his successor.

The Detroit front office, however, still has profound respect for Baker's reputation as a second baseman. That's why almost three years ago they turned to the relatively unknown third base coach at Chicago, White Sox, and Steve O'Neill, one of Baker's lieutenants, was prominently mentioned as his successor.

Laugh Clown—And Play Tennis

Frank Kovacs comes to net and drives opponent to see him. Humorous Hungarian takes it out on racket when touch goes wrong, then expresses boredom with whole thing.

Kovacs, Tennis' Best Showman, at Last Settles Down—To Be Even More Humorous

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—All Francis Louis Kovacs II has to do to win the national singles championship, they say, is pay strict attention to "settled down"—to be funnier than ever.

The 6 foot, 3½-inch, 180-pound bronzed Hungarian out of Oakland, Calif., still insists upon playing tennis for the sport of it. His explanation is that he tightens up when deathly serious.

Kovacs' delightful antics have made him the most magnetic attraction in the game, so he remains a headcase and a lifeline to the dead officials of the United States Lawn Tennis Association.

Kovacs' antics so annoyed the brass files in the national's Forest Hills last summer that in an early round they had the California and his opponent play off an obscure court.

But Kovacs' crowd appeal is such that the out-of-the-way court quickly became the main one.

SITDOWN STRIKE AT FOREST HILLS. Kovacs' clowning an upset Joe Hunt in the quarter-finals that the midwestern star drove on the court. So Kovacs found a nice shady spot, and flopped down into there they were on an all-star strike.

Kovacs' clowning with spectators, line-men and ball boys. He laughs at the men in the chair and line-men when they make mistakes that go against him. He comes in with a racket and defies them. He guffaws when rivals become put out on officials or themselves.

He comes in with a racket and defies an adversary in an aim. He comes in with a racket and defies an adversary in an aim. He comes in with a racket and defies an adversary in an aim.

The agricultural "rule" practice in Poland has been a bone of contention for many years. It has divided so far as evaluations. He said: "But it does not permit even the most superficial analysis of the Polish state could even be to question it does not allow of it. Poland has not signed anything."

"Germany always has been today and will be for tomorrow, the most powerful country in Europe, and she has no difficulty in keeping her head down with the question, 'Will Germany be able to?'"

The Polish nation will remain a free nation, and will be a friend with Germany. But led by a false idea, it realizes that the Polish nation is not a friend, an understanding with one of the great nations in order to reach the other efforts."

Investigation disclosed that a microphone and a series of loudspeakers had been set up to spread the chatter of the single gun throughout the world.

It Was Scheduled To Bomb Moscow . . . War — On Two Sides Of The World . . . The Tanks Are Coming — Over There

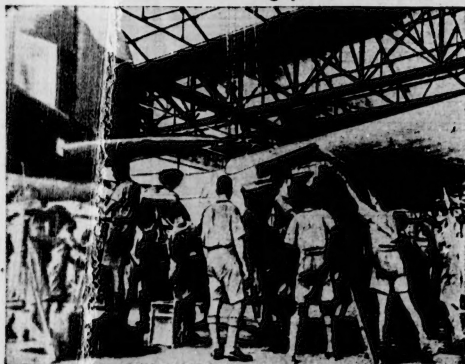

This radiophoto from Moscow illustrates the statement of Russian Ambassador Maisky when he said concerning the Nazis' "timetable" — "It's a long way to Tipperary." Correspondents for foreign newspapers and syndicates are giving a thorough once-over to a German bomber, one of 100 that were sent over Moscow to burn it out. A few planes did break through the cordon of anti-aircraft fire and Russian night fighting planes — but the Luftwaffe bomber shown here was one of the many that didn't.

Here is Norman Unquhart, of Toronto, chairman of the Prisoners of War Parcels Committee for Canada, explaining to a group of volunteers just how a machine for sealing packages with gummed paper is operated.

Bee Hive In Singapore

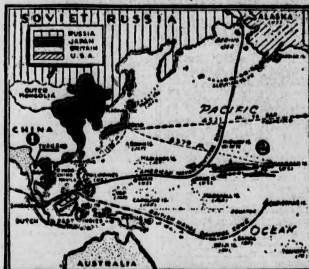

British Royal Air Force experts are swarming about a Brewster fighting plane, assembling the craft after its arrival at Singapore, crated from the United States. These planes have been arriving at the British stronghold in a steady stream and are now an important part of Singapore's defences. Named "Buffalo Fighters" they are credited with great performance in the air by R.A.F. men who fly them. They will come in very, very handy if Japan goes through with her drive to the south. Present demand for bases in Indo-China is believed to foreshadow the long-expected attack on the Dutch East Indies.

New Dive Bomber Christened By Lady Halifax

At Vultee aircraft plant, Lady Halifax, wife of British ambassador to the United States, christened a new type dive bomber being built for Britain, named the Vengeance. The first two dive bombers have been built at Vultee, but the entire production of the ship will be handled at the Nashville, Tenn., division of Vultee and by Northrop Aircraft at Hawthorne, Calif. The plane was christened by Lady Halifax during a ceremony at Vultee in honor of Lord and Lady Halifax.

On top the map shows the lineup of Pacific powers at a glance now that Japan has signified her intention of further aggressions. At present she is said to be massing on the border of Thailand (Siam), while U.S. naval authorities made a last minute checkup of the great Hawaiian naval base at Pearl Island. The map on the bottom shows the approximate battlefield as it is taking shape in the world war manner, with trenches; instead of the intense war of movement as heretofore. Most active points in the line are in the area around Leningrad (1), Smolensk (2) and Zhitomir (3).

A Gift From Canada

Neither bombs nor threats of invasion prevented the annual baby show at Malden, England, from staging its annual pageant of beauty and selecting a queen. Here is "Her Majesty," posing prettily with her faithful friend, "King Kong." The queen is 14-months-old Frances Huggins of Malden.

Prime Minister Winston Churchill, in light suit, pauses during an inspection visit to an armored division in England's Southern Command to inspect an American-built M-3 tank. It's one of the "certain things you need in order to fight this war for the democracies," which lend-lease supervisor Harry Hopkins recently promised the British people that America would supply.

An anti-tank gun that formerly belonged to the invading Nazis is turned against the fleeing foe, according to the Moscow censor-approved caption for this radiophoto, by a Russian unit that captured the weapon somewhere on the Russo-German front.

Leaders—Without Lands

This picture is one of the most complete of the heads of the governments-in-exile in Great Britain. It shows Britain's King and Queen playing host to them at Buckingham Palace, where they came for afternoon tea. They are, left to right: King George VI; Queen Wilhelmina of the Netherlands; Mrs. Edward Benes; King Peter of Yugoslavia; Queen Elizabeth; Eduard Benes, president of the Czechoslovakia government in exile; King Haakon VII of Norway; and Wladyslaw Raczewicz, president of the exiled Polish government. Missing allied leaders are those representing Belgium and Greece.

"Hello, Dean! How glad to see you again!" His eyes took in every detail of her appearance. "I can't believe it yet," he said, "I had a chance to drive down with you some other fellow."

CHAPTER FIFTEEN
"Who is calling?" Matthew O'Connor asked in his most peremptory tone. Kathleen, who had been staring out the living room window caught her breath. Could it be Jimmy, who had braved her father's displeasure and telephoned her? Yet who would he do so when he must have known Matthew would be in the house?

She now suddenly, she had always liked to dance with Dean but her mind was keeping step with Jimmy so that she found it difficult to adjust herself. They had danced on the floor once when she was a familiar stranger looming up in front of her.

"You, Dean? Just a moment, I'll tell her." Kathleen's voice rang with genuine relief. "Where are you?" she asked. "I've got in. I haven't heard from you for so long. I thought I'd better come down for a look and check up," Dean said.

Stricken Face
When the music started the two couples were so close she could have touched Jimmy's arm. She did not do so, but Jimmy, turning suddenly, saw her stricken face. His own expression did not change. He smiled and nodded, then followed his partner to their table.

Animal Crackers
Kathleen felt guilty. It was true she had not answered his last letter. She had been too busy thinking about Jimmy. Dean had faded into the past with some musing ago but the sound of his voice brought him back to life. It would be fun to see him.

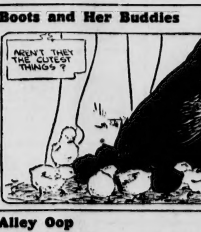

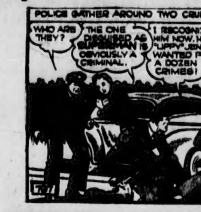

At the present time, the majority of experts believe an original no trump bid should be made only with a big hand. It is a You Zedwitz opinion, however, that this year will find a trend toward the more general use of the weak no trump.
